NO. II Life of William Comper. Every one must feel an interest in the life of the Poet Cowper, by whose writings the fancy is so pleased, and ularly, when in him we view the strange union of shyness and ambition. of cheerfulness and despondency.

Mr. Cowper was born in Heartfordshire on the 15th Nov 1731. At six years of age, he lost his affectionate mother; whose influence, had she been spared, would in all probability have rescued him from that depression of spirits, which hang in a thick claud over his mind during the greater part to his daily augmenting sorrow. A western paper has detected the author of these infamous publications, in a certain Dr. Armstrong, of Rutherford ounty, Tenn. ; who rendered himsel somewhat notorious for a display of Falstaff's discretion, in the precises of the battle-field at New-Orleans. The paper says :

"He resigned his station as surgeof in Gen. Jackson's army, when employed against the Creeks, and was saied the horrors of a perilous war. Subsequently he became surgeon in Gn. Coffee's brigade before New-Oleans, and there betrayed a pusillaimity, that have ever since dis-greed him. On the 1st of January 1:15, he saw the British lines drawn us for battle, and it struck such dismay into his cowardly heart, that he pretended sickness, and was permitted to retire to the Chaplain's quarters. The chaplain addressed the following lines to the hospital surgeon-" I wish you would order Dr. Armstrong to his duty, for he has three of the best signs of a well man-he eats heartily, sleeps soundly, and laughs loudly." a source so foul, can any thing be credited? A coward is a proper instrument to defame the valiant; for he feels degraded by a comparison with the brave, and envy induces him to perpetrate despicable pieces of villainy in the dark, to impair the honourable reputation of his antipodes, so less prove the character of most of the masked libellers of Genl. Jackson : for it is foreign to true courage and magnanimity to underrate the splendid ident! deeds of a patriot and defender of his country.

Extravagance......The developments made by the Committee on Retrench-ment and that on the Expenditures of the Department of State, are calculated to excite surprise and soprehension. A most thorough contempt of economy, and a prodigal extravagance in the ex-penditure of the Public Money seems to ecutive Departments from the President down to the lowest officer. Western Tennessee,-The Jackson (Western Tennessee) Gazette, says, that "notwithstanding the low price of cotton," the people of that section of country are making much greater crops of cotton, as well as of corn, &c. than in former seasons. Upwards of 2000 bales of cotton, of last year's crop, have been sent from Madison county alone; and it is computed that about 4000 bales will be made in that county the present season; and somewhere about 30,-000 bales in the fourteen counties which constitute what is called the Western District. This is evidence conclusive of the increasing population and wealth of that section of country. Two much of the enterprize, talent and wealth of this state, are continually leaving us, and seeking a more encouraging sphere of action, in the wilds of Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, &c.

Fires in New-York .- In our last we mentioned the destruction, by fire, of the Bowery Theatre in New-York, with a number of other buildings : it appears that a desperate gang of incendiaries were prowling about that city: the inhabitants were for a number of days kept in a continual state of alarm, by fires breaking out at various points, some of which were known to have been kindled by these abandoned incendiaries: a good many houses were burnt: twenty-one insurance companies united in offering a reward

A piece of paper was picked up in the street, with the following written on it: " To the public. All ways pay your men, when you employ them, else you will be set on fire, for I am the man, and catch me if you can."!! This may lead to the detection of the villains.

We recommend the following authentic letter of Gen. WASHINGTON, to the especial attention of the coffin-handbill gentry. Certain editors are advised, when they publish it, (as, no doubt, from their instinctive horror of all executions, whether of traitors, spies or mutineers, they will do) to head it something after this fashion:

"WASHINGTON, a Murderer!!

" BLOOD AND CARNAGE. " Two poor Militiamen, shot to death by General Washington, in cold blood! One had a wife and sixteen children; the other five stepmothers, whom he supported with his daily to tions. Africa .- Intelligence has been received, I that Major Laing and Captain Clapperton, have both been assasinated at Timbuctoo, by the Foulahs, 30,000 of whom surrounded the city, and demanded them as spies sent on discoveries, by the Christian nations. This information has been transmitted to the Pacha of Tripoli, and we have no doubt, can be relied upon. While we lament the fate of these brave menwe are persuaded that no white man can ever penetrate that country with perfect safety-their color is odious, and their religion is hateful to the ignorant and bigotted people of the interior; there is, besides, a well settled jealousy against all strangers, which is more rigidly enforced than in China. To conquer and civilize Africa, we think is impossible—the cli mate alone would be fatal to such a project; what then have we to learn? course of the Niger, the names and dimensions of other rivers, the mud-walled cities, and inland trade, the names and distinctions of tribes, and their internal resources---subjects with which we are sufficiently familiar? We are surprised that our colonising friends have not thought it expedient to educate a few hardy, intelligent and enterprising persons of color in this country, and them on an exploring expedition, in the interior of Africa. This is the plan of Drovetti of Egypt, of Chavau and Pacha, of France, and promises more success, than the voyages of Park, Ledyard, Clapperton, or Major Laing. If information is our object, this is the surest way to obtain it; and there are intelligent free blacks, in this city, who would undertake the labor, and run the risk, if the project is got up in a proper manner.

By the President of the United States of America. A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, a Convention between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, was concluded and signed by their Plenipotentiaries, at London on the sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven, which Convention is, word for word, as Renewal of Commercial Convention.

The United States of America, and His Majesty the now King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, being desirous of continuing in force the existing commercial rebetween the two countries, which are ntained in the Convention concluded between them on the 3d of July, 1815, and further renewed by the Fourth Article of the Convention newed by the Fourth Article of the Convention of the 20th October, 1818, have, for that purpose, named their respective Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:

The President of the United States of America. Albert Gallatin, their Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to His Britannic Maiesty.

ajesty. And His Majesty the King of the United King dom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Hon orable Charles Grant, a member of His said Ma-jesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, a member of Parliament, and Vice President of the Committee of Privy Council for Affairs of Trade and Foreign Plantations; and Henry Unwin

Addington, Esquire;
Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

Ant. 1. All the provisions of the Convention concluded between the United States of America, and his Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the 3d of July, 1815, and further continued for the term of ten years by the Fourth Article of the Convention of the 20th of October, 1818-with the exception therein contained, as to Helena, are hereby further indefinitely, without the said exception, extended and continued in force, from the date of the expiration of the said ten years, in the same manner as if all the provisions of the said Convention of the 3d of July, 1813, were herein specifically re-

ART. 2. It shall be competent, however, to either of the contracting parties, in case e ther should think fit, at any time after the expiration of the said ten years-that is, after the 20th of October, 1828—on giving due notice of twelve months to the other contracting party, to annul and abrogate this Convention; and it shall, in such case, be accordingly entirely annulled and abrogated, after the expiration of the said term

3. The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged in nine months, or sooner, if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their

FOR THE WESTERS CAROLINIAE. " Tanta est discordia fratrum !". The guardian Press, the Tongue, the Pen, The Rules of decency contemn, When opposition mounts the gale, And coalitions would prevail. Reason dismissed, our surest guide, Opinions are maintained by pride; And prejudices, deep and strong, Are cherished, whether right or wrong; Brothers a brother's choice oppose, And cordial friends turn bitter foes,

It is not always by the sword Man is compell'd to own a lord; These weapons three more cogent are Than all the thunderbolts of war, When ambushments are brought to light By freedom hovering o'er the fight; And error, perfidy or crime, Are left for justice to define.

Equality, well organized, Is by no human heart despised. The people trained in freedom's school Are more ambitious to rule, Than they who bend the willing knee, Proud Aristocracy, to thee; And never felt her sweet embrace, Or gazed enraptured on her face : But civil jars subvert her plan, Obscure the majesty of man,-Commotions agitate the mind And perspicacity make blind, When every artful caitiff tries To shut the Sovereign People's eyes.

When Truth and Liberty unite Their standards in the doubtful fight, Throughout Columbia's Empire swells A voice which dark Ambition quells:

Guift trembling hears the manly note, Impure, intriguing minions cower; And merit regulates the vote That elevates to civil power.

Intriguing minions !- who are they ! The subalterns of C. and A.??? Can truth be heard, when deep disguise And party rage the truth despise?

The mass are credulous-yet still Truth is the darling of their will! Deceit may triumph for a time. When cunning Demagogues combine To gain their ends .- Supreme at last, All powerful Truth will stand confest.

Detraction and delusion rage. Nor spare the Heno nor the sage; Exasperated passions swell. And now attack and now repel; Exalted and depressed by turns, As the politic mania burns.

Domestic circles are invaded,-The matron and the maid degraded,-Black slander, with malignant art, Ingeniously directs his dart-Beat back the fiend !- nor deign to hear Such tales as he delights to bear.

To undisputed facts appeal,-Attested facts stern truths reveal. Doubt is the gate to Truth declared,-All stories void of proof discard; Nor longer let the factious brand Of party strife, inflame the Land : A land where Justicz sits enshrined In every patriotic mind.

Diamonds .- The ancients attributed extraordinary virtues to the Diamond. They believed it could not be broken even by the greatest blows, but Pliny says, if it be soaked in the blood of a goat, it may then be broken. The ancients believed that a dimond kept in the house would prevent domestic strife between man and wife. This was mere idle imagination, but there is a diamond that may be kept in every family, which has this virtue: it is good temper.

A young lady was once told by a married lady, that she had better precipitate herself from off the rocks of the Passaic Falls, into the basin beneath, than marry. The young lady replied. "I would if I thought I could find a husband at the bottom."

My dear, what makes you always yawn?" The wife exclaimed—her temper gone-Is home so dull and dreary ?" "Not so, my love," not so:
"But man and wife are one, you know,
"And when alone I'm weary."
